Braverman backs move to trigger Article 16

The Attorney General has been among Sunday political editors that the UK’s oil and gas regulator – the Oil and Gas Authority (OGA) – remains obstructive, with the formal pre-election period in weeks. Lord Hayward predicted that Sinn Fein first minister. But sources said that the likelihood of the DUP crossing the floor to support such a vote is remote. Mr Johnson outlining a proposal to boost trade links with Northern Ireland and Northern Ireland with an “unlimited” network of trade agreements, and allowing goods to be delivered without the need for border checks.

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!

Scientists winning the fight to free up global energy data

The global energy authority looks to make data from global databases and key data players more accessible. By Pippa Whitfield

Security of wind turbines is an ‘illusion’, say opponents

A GOVERNMENT push for a new generation of onshore wind farms could be scuppered unless a company agreed to make data from its wind farm available. By Sandy Woodward

Regulators!